"The future of the Church, of humanity, depends in a large part on parents and the family life they build up in their home." John Paul II in Ireland 1979

It is from the family that citizens come to birth and it is within the family that they find the first school of the social virtues that are the animating principle of the existence and development of society itself. (JPII, Familiaris Consortio, 42)

Family life can have an enormous multiplying effect for the good of all society. For it to happen, Christian parents must be fully aware of their calling to be apostles in and from their own homes*: a mission that has special importance for both Church and civil society. (Bishop Alvaro del Portillo, first successor of St. Josemaria)*

The parents' work in this terrain is fundamental… If you seriously look after the formation of your children… you will receive so many blessings from God… your children are the hope, the future of the church and society. And this hope is in your hands in your prayer, in your self-giving, in your sacrifice. (Bishop Alvaro del Portillo, first successor of St. Josemaria)
